BU move-in likely to snarl traffic

Public safety officials are warning drivers that the culmination of construction on the Boston University Bridge, the Red Sox playing the Yankees at Fenway and more than 11,000 BU students moving in is going to cause a traffic nightmare beginning today and lasting through Labor Day. Streets will be closed all around the campus area from today through Sunday, starting at 8 a.m. and ending at 6 p.m. {page 02}

Student move-in causes street closures

Boston University Bridge construction, mixed with a Red Sox-Yankees series and BU student move-in week, will lead to serious gridlock around the city through Labor Day.

According to Boston University's website, the school's public safety department expects this week's move-in of more than 11,460 students to be busier than previous years.

All week, students will be matched with dormitory beds, with a small overflow of students finding 60 beds off-campus, according to BU Today.

Street closures will take place all around the campus area from today through Sunday, from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

BU Today said the busiest days of the week will be Wednesday — the first regular move-in day for all students — and Saturday, the main move-in day for freshmen. The heaviest rush on both days will typically be between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Public safety officials at the school said drivers should expect to see serious traffic. ● STEVE ANNEAR

Safety standards at Logan sky-high

◗ Airport's beefed-up security efforts make it perfect place for first-ever on-scene anti-terrorism facility ◗ Travelers won't even know they're there

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

▶ Logan Airport officials announced a Joint Terrorism Task Force annex at the airport.

After two planes that left Logan Airport were used to kill thousands of Americans on 9/11, local, federal and state security officials have met every morning at 8:30 a.m. to talk about anti-terrorism efforts and swap information.

Now, Boston's airport will be home to an official meeting place for those conversations.

Making it the first on-scene airport facility in the nation, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, alongside the Massachusetts Port Authority, announced the opening of the self-contained annex dedicated to the Joint Terrorism Task Force yesterday.

Tasked with combating future security breaches from a national to local level, JTTF, which has been in operation since July, will have daily presence from eight agencies.

The group will have special access to criminal backgrounds and intelligence gathering from airports around the country.

"This effort is a culmination [of agencies], and their individual commitment and dedication to fight terrorism and other criminal enterprises," said FBI Special Agent Richard DesLauriers. "No one agency can do this alone."

Massport Director of Aviation Edward Freni said there will never be another attack like 9/11 because the efforts of the JTTF "will never let something like that happen again."

▶ Di Masi

DiMasi's appeal denied

BOSTON. Former House Speaker Sal DiMasi lost his bid for a new trial in his public corruption case yesterday, according to Boston.com

A federal judge ruled there was "ample evidence" that DiMasi and lobbyist Richard W. McDonough engaged in a "classic scheme" to cash in on DiMasi's power as an elected official.

He was found guilty of conspiracy, mail fraud, three counts of wire fraud and extortion. ● METRO

Cops probe shady death

BOSTON. Police were investigating the death of a person whose body was found in Jamaica Plain yesterday morning.

According to a scanner report, an officer responding to the scene found the situation suspicious and notified officials.

Police said a building manager at 76 Elm St. discovered the person's remains around 11:18 a.m. yesterday, according to Boston.com. ● METRO

Confidence falls flat

NEW YORK. Consumer confidence plunged in August to its lowest level since the 2007-2009 recession, after a bruising battle over the U.S. budget slammed stock prices and pushed the nation to the brink of default. Yesterday's data kept alive concerns the nation could slide back into a recession and spurred investors to buy government bonds on bets the U.S. Federal Reserve would try something new to help growth. REUTERS

Hurricane Irene has left a path of destruction in her wake Dozens are dead, a million without power Terrible timing for tourist areas

National Guard and firefighters rescued hundreds of people from record flooding in New Jersey yesterday, and Vermont planned to airlift food and water to inland towns cut off by Hurricane Irene after its paralyzing rampage through the northeast.

Irene killed about 40 people when it dumped 5 to 15 inches of rain over wide swathes of the East Coast on Saturday and Sunday. It spared New York City but caused the worst flooding in decades in inland areas of New York state, New Jersey and Vermont.

Search and rescue teams have plucked nearly 600 people from homes in recent days with the most intense efforts yesterday when the Passaic River measured 13 feet above flood stage, the highest level since 1903.

Firefighters rescued some by boat and the National Guard saved others by truck, taking them to a Red Cross shelter. "Some are coming out of their windows," Popov said.

"It's raging," he said of the Passaic, which runs through the center of town.

Swollen rivers were still cresting yesterday and flood plains remained under water in northeastern states that were already soaked by an unusually wet summer.

Utilities restored electricity to roughly half the 6.7 million customers who had power knocked out, and New York City mass transit and air travel crept back to normal.

Clear skies in the northeast aided rescue efforts, but hundreds of thousands of homes were damaged, with some swept away in the torrent. REUTERS

MICHAEL LOCCISANO/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Rains and the cresting of nearby waters caused flooding on Farmingdale Road in Wayne, N.J.

Round 2?

Tropical Storm Katia is jogging west at a brisk 18 miles per hour, and the National Hurricane Center says it is expected to become a hurricane late today or early tomorrow. But the center says it is not possible now to predict its path with certainty, or even say whether it will threaten the East Coast. REUTERS

Tourism out to dry

The timing of the storm — end of summer, before the Labor Day holiday weekend — is particularly troubling for businesses whose peak season comes in the fall and winter when visitors flock to see leaves turn colors and to ski.

▶ "Economically, I'm devastated," said Betsey Reagan, owner of Dot's Diner in West Dover, Vermont. "Who knows what is going to happen. ... Tourists can't come if the roads aren't open."

Libya rebels to loyalists: Surrender

TRIPOLI. Libya's interim leader gave forces loyal to deposed ruler Muammar Gaddafi a four-day deadline yesterday to surrender or face a bloody end to a war that the new leadership said has killed 50,000 people.

As the hunt for Gaddafi himself goes on, Libyan officials accused Algeria of an act of aggression for giving refuge to his fleeing wife and three of his children, as well as, it turned out, to a new granddaughter, born yesterday.

"By Saturday, if there are no peaceful indications for implementing this, we will decide this matter militarily," said Mustafa Abdel Jalil, head of Libya's interim council.

Gaddafi's whereabouts have been unknown since his foes seized his Tripoli compound on Aug. 23, ending his 42-year rule after a six-month revolt backed by NATO.

Dead piling up over Syria's hard line

AMMAN. Security forces shot dead four demonstrators yesterday as people streamed out of mosques after prayers to mark the end of Ramadan and renewed protests against Syrian President Bashar al-Assad, activists and residents said.

The victims, who included a 13-year-old boy, were killed in the towns of al-Hara and Inkhil in southern Deraa province.

"The people want the downfall of the president," protesters shouted in the suburb of Harasta, where activists said dozens of soldiers defected. REUTERS

According to one activist group, Syrian troops have killed at least 551 civilians during Ramadan.

Adam Levine quits — and rejoins — Maroon 5

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

If you read Maroon 5 might not do another album after "Hands All Over," don't believe the hype — lead singer and foxy McFoxerson Adam Levine wants to set the record straight. "My motto basically is like, this will continue. Maroon 5 will always go on in some way, shape or form, probably for a long time," he told us at the launch for Maroon 5's limited edition Snapple flavor, "Tea Will Be Loved" (not to worry, they're not totally selling out; proceeds will benefit Feeding America, the nation's largest hunger-relief organization). "We obviously, more than anything, want to stick together and I think we will," said Levine, who sadly remained shirted throughout our brief conversation. "But yeah, we'll have to see where we're at. I just quit and rejoined the band just during this conversation. You didn't even know."

▶ When Adam returns to "The Voice" in February, we're hoping he does so without a shirt on.

DOROTHY ROBINSON'S WORD BLOG

Levine found tremendous success on "The Voice" this year, and recently confirmed that he'll be back as a judge for the next season. Is there anything he'll do differently the second time around?

"No, I love the show and I'm a huge fan of it. I think it's one of things that kinda crept up on me and surprised me. It's really fun and I'm so genuinely excited to come back to it."

DWTS dance mates revealed

Be sure to tune into "Good Morning America" today to see who new DWTS cast members — David Arquette, Chynna Phillips, Hope Solo, Ricki Lake, Nancy Grace, Carson Kressley, and Chaz Bono, among others — will be paired with for the next season of the hit reality show.

Although people are saying this is the worst lineup yet, I think Grace is a perfect addition. Think of her 'Tot Mom Tango!'

▶ Think Ricki Lake still remembers her "Hairspray" moves?

Talking points

Fox takes on bus driver

"Lost" star Matthew Fox was detained by police in Cleveland after an altercation outside a bar with a female bus driver, according to TMZ. The driver, Heather Borman, says a clearly inebriated Fox was trying to board the party bus she was driving, though he wasn't a part of the group who had rented it. "He just kept staring at me with his mouth wide open and not saying anything. I told him, 'You have to leave buddy. You are trespassing on my bus,'" Borman says, adding that Fox then "leaned in and started punching my crotch and breast." Borman struck back, punching Fox in the face and splitting his lip, which deterred the actor. Borman says she was acting in self-defense.

Jolie clears things up

With all the speculation going around about her family life, Angelina Jolie wants to clear a few things up. "I'm not pregnant. I'm not adopting at the moment," Jolie tells Vanity Fair, adding that there is no "secret wedding" planned for her and Brad Pitt. Jolie is more concerned with her directorial debut, "In the Land of Blood and Honey," and says that Pitt tried his best to be helpful during the making of the project. "He'd come in and say what he liked or what he didn't understand," she says. "Like any woman, I would listen to most of it and fight a few things. He's been so supportive. But it's hard to separate the person that loves you from the critic, so I don't think he's a fair judge."

Winslet

Winslet recounts fire

Kate Winslet is finally breaking her silence about her harrowing escape from a recent house fire on Richard Branson's private Caribbean island. "I'm just glad that everyone is safe," Winslet tells Entertainment Tonight. "I will never forget Richard placing his arms around both my children as we were watching the flames, and saying, 'At the end of the day, what you realize is that all that matters is the people that you love. Everything else is just stuff.'"

These celebs weathered Hurricane Irene just fine

1: Narcissister (don't ask me who or what that is) and Marilyn Manson attended the "Born Villain" screening at the Silent Movie Theater Monday in Los Angeles.

2: Recording artist Keri Hilson (love those shades, girl!) attended Cash Money Records' Lil Wayne album release party for "Tha Carter IV" at Boulevard3 on Sunday in Los Angeles.

3: Captain George Clooney was spotted during the 68th Venice Film Festival on Tuesday.

4: Alice Cooper performed at the DTE Energy Center on Saturday in Clarkston, Mich. You know people in Michigan love them some Alice Cooper.

5: Of course she'd rock a cape while in Russia: Sarah Jessica Parker attended a screening of her new film "I Don't Know How She Does It" on Sunday in Moscow.

6: Who's that girl? Madonna watched dancer (and new boyfriend!) Brahim Zaibat during the closing party of the Gotha Club of Palm Beach Casino on Saturday in Cannes, France.

SUMMER'S NOT OVER YET

Late summer offers an equally full calendar of special events and seasonal favorites. So make the most of September with its sunny days and cooler temperatures, because despite the calendar, it's still summer in the city!

Labor Day weekend kicks off with the Deutsche Bank Championship when top PGA Tour golfers compete for the FedEx Cup. The boys of summer have 14 home games remaining in the regular season, beginning with the Evil Empire on Sept. 1. But it will be the Dropkick Murphys scoring the hits at Fenway on Sept. 8 and 9.

You can sit front row and center for Bernstein's glorious musical "Candide" at the Huntington through Oct. 16, the return (76 years later) of the Gershwin brothers "Porgy and Bess" through Oct. 2 at the ART or enjoy Celtic Thunder when it storms the Wang Theatre, Sept. 23.

The Revels RiverSing celebrates the autumnal equinox along the banks of the Charles at the Weeks Footbridge on Sunday, Sept. 18. Boston's biggest block party, the 11th annual BeanTown Jazz Festival jams all day long on Columbus Avenue, Sept. 24. Opening night is Sept. 30 for the Boston Symphony, showcasing an All-Mozart Program.

The coming fall is also heralded by the annual Cambridge Carnival International, a colorful and festive celebration. On Sept. 10., Kendall Square hosts the Grand Costume Parade, musical performances, with food and crafts from around the world. Film buffs will delight in feature films, documentaries and shorts during the 27th Boston Film Festival from Sept. 16-22. Make plans for Rumble on the River, on Sept. 18, for a daylong festival of head-to-head races, music, games and barbecue.

I invite you to get closer to nature at the Peabody Essex Museum's exhibition, "Painting the American Vision," on display until early November. The deCordova Sculpture Park and Museum offers free admission weekdays through Sept. 2. And in honor of the opening of the Linde Family Wing for Contemporary Art, the MFA is free for all on Sunday, Sept. 18.

Before you put away the sun block and sandals, ferry to the Boston Harbor Islands for a day of exploring, kayaking or touring Boston Light. Boats still cruise the Harbor and the Charles, but you might bring along a jacket. The Boston Harbor Hotel's summer music and movies series closes the first week of September with "Raiders of the Lost Ark" showing on Sept. 2. Stroll the Esplanade or the HarborWalk while sailboats still catch the wind. Grab a table at a sidewalk cafe and enjoy al fresco dining in the warm September sun.

Diary of a mad fasting woman

Thinking about doing a juice cleanse? Metro's Tina Chadha went for three days with no solid food — or cocktails — and lived to tell you about it

I've decided to do a juice cleanse. It's not because I'm overweight and want to lose a few pounds (though who wouldn't love that?) but because lately I've been feeling like crap. I'm sluggish, bloated and caffeine-dependant. And whether I eat breakfast or not, by the time I switch on my computer at work I'm starving. It's the kind of maddening hunger that drives you to the vending machine for a bag of salty chips at 10 a.m.

To detox, I signed up for BluePrintCleanse, which involves six juices a day that are delivered to you. I chose level one of a three-day plan, which includes about 1,200 calories per day. Here's how it went:

The timeline

Day one: Thursday

- 10 a.m.: I walk into the office and staring me right in the face is a spread of bagels, scones and various flavored cream cheeses. Ugh! It's "Bagel Thursday." I rush past.
- 10:05 a.m.: I crack open my first juice — the feared green kind. My first sip is surprisingly refreshing and sweet.
- 10:45 a.m.: I'm a slow drinker and only halfway through the juice, which is now kind of warm and not as yummy anymore. Lesson: You really gotta throw this one back cold.
- Noon: Juice two is a pineapple, apple, mint concoction. One sip and I'm in love. Instant thought: This would be amazing with some vodka.
- 2 p.m.: The office smells like Thai food. I hate everyone.
- 4 p.m.: I'm a little lightheaded and my mouth is dry. I chug more water. You're supposed to drink tons of it and green or herbal tea to flush out the toxins that the juices are helping your body release. I realize I never drink enough water.
- 6:30 p.m.: Some co-workers decide to go for drinks. Will I even have fun without a vodka tonic? I give it a shot. Our orders go like this: "vodka gimlet," "Maker's on the rocks," "water no ice."
- 7 p.m.: The no-drinking thing isn't bothering me as much as the smell of french fries in the air. But I feel a little high; I'm laughing, keeping up with the conversation and even bopping to the bad '90s club hits playing.
- 9:30 p.m.: Home at last. My fiance comments on how surprisingly non-"hangry" and pleasant I'm being. (He was obviously scared!)
- 10:30 p.m.: Milk grosses me out but I go for the final drink of the day, a cashew milk with vanilla extract and cinnamon. It tastes like a melted dessert. I'm in heaven. Time to watch a movie and go to bed.

The next two days:

- I fought off my mom's pleas to " have just one bite," counted all the restaurants I want to visit, felt like an energized cheerleader and cursed all my neighbors for simultaneously deciding to grill out on Saturday. Though I will never give up fries, wine or sweets, the cleanse has motivated me eat healthier. I may even do another one down the road.

TINA CHADHA

What the expert says

Nutritionist and the author of "The Beauty Detox Solution," Kimberly Snyder breaks down what happens to our bodies when we go on a detox.

Why do some people feel light-headed on a cleanse? The way you prepare for a cleanse — the foods you eat in the days before and upon breaking the cleanse — are extremely important. Most people don't pay attention to these factors, [which] can actually do more harm than good, and reserve any potential benefits to their juice "cleanse."

Why do we have more energy when juicing? Most people eat foods that require a ton of energy to digest, such as dairy, refined starches, etc. So when they do a juice fast, by the power of omission, they are freeing up that energy away from digestion.

Helicopters are deadly tools

On Aug. 6, 2011, the U.S. lost 30 special forces troops, including 22 Navy SEALs, in a helicopter shot down over Afghanistan. These people were the elite of our military. Unfortunately, we have suffered similar losses in prior missions where helicopters loaded with military personnel have been shot down or crashed due to equipment problems. Helicopters are relatively slow moving vehicles, especially the large Chinook, which operates in close proximity to the ground. U.S. special forces should re-evaluate their operational plans to encompass minimizing casualties from helicopter operations. DONALD A. MOSKOWITZ, VIA E-MAIL

Learning from Bush's mistake

RE: "BLAME GAME, OR JUST THE FACTS?": I wouldn't necessarily call it a "blame game," but it's just right that all heads are turned toward Bush when it comes to the vegetative state which the economy is in right now. We can all accept and admit that it is going to take a while before we can fully recover, but are we supposed to forget about the spending spree Bush went on during his presidency? Let Obama learn from Bush's mistake.
RICARDO CUMMINGS, VIA E-MAIL

Fed laughs all the way to bank

Texas Congressman Ron Paul is leading the charge to force the Federal Reserve to give a full public accounting of the trillions in recent taxpayer-backed loans. The sad part is, the more the Fed expands the amount of dollars in circulation, the more the value of your savings goes down and the more money they and Goldman Sachs make!
JOSEPH DUPONT, VIA E-MAIL

Nature's power undeniable

Hurricane Irene proves, beyond any doubt, that nature has its own power. The country was discovered courtesy of wind-powered ships. We used to take pride in our hydroelectric power. And the sun — well, if you ever got into a car that has been sitting out in August sunlight you know what radiant energy is. But all are being defeated by the petroleum-based energy thugs and their thug lobbyists and politicians and Supreme Court shills and cowards.

Horoscope

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Even if the only steps you can think of are minuscule, don't hesitate to take whatever measures you can that you believe would strengthen your financial position.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Stick to working with those whom you've previously shared success with, and you'll have good chances of hitting the jackpot again. Dealing with unknown people could produce a different story.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. An important goal can be reached, albeit not necessarily on your first try. Be prepared to shrug off disappointing early results and regroup.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. An unexpected shift in circumstances involving your work or career could take place. Although it might not be good for some, it should be for you.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. It would be smart to let the other party call the shots when negotiating an agreement. By better understanding where he or she is coming from, you can answer any challenge.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. By being better aware of certain subtle benefits inherent in an endeavor that you're presently involved in, you could be enticed to work harder and get more out of it than others will.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Treat everybody in a sincere, thoughtful manner, because you never know who could help you in some way that others can't.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Worthwhile developments could occur through your industriousness, so this is not the time to slack it up. Put work and duty above all else.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. This is a good day to roll up your sleeves and finish all the tasks and projects you've left undone. If you're smart, you'll start with the toughest and finish with the easiest.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. You might be able to finally figure out how to establish a better rapport with someone who could make your life easier. Once you do, mutual benefits could ensue. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Do Yanks call him daddy?

- Josh Beckett has owned New York so far this season
- Can he keep it up tonight, continue sterling season?

CC Sabathia arrived at Fenway Park on Tuesday desperate to solve the mystery of his biggest rival.

Brought to New York to beat the Red Sox, Sabathia had failed to do so in four previous starts this season, dragging an 0-4 record and 7.20 ERA to Fenway Park for the opener of a critical three-game series.

Across the diamond, tonight's Red Sox starter Josh Beckett could relate. Or, at least, he used to. In his first five seasons with the Red Sox, the Yankees were an albatross around the righthander's neck, going 10-7 with a 6.26 ERA in 22 starts.

Even in Beckett's dominant 2007 season, when he finished as the runner-up to Sabathia in the Cy Young voting, the Yankees enjoyed success, hitting .303 against Beckett and saddling him with a 4.39 ERA, as Beckett went 2-1 in four starts.

30

Josh Beckett has 30 strikeouts against the Yankees in four starts this season. He's allowed just four walks as well.

In four starts against the Yankees this season, Beckett is 3-0, with an ERA of 1.00, a 0.85 WHIP and .170 batting-average against. A year ago, the Yankees hung a 10.04 ERA on Beckett in five starts, with a WHIP of 2.04 and a .339 BAA.

"He wasn't the same pitcher last season and it was a constant battle," catcher Jason Varitek said earlier this month.

Sox won't see A-Rod in series

The Yankees have a trio of productive hitters in their lineup that have done nicely during Alex Rodriguez's absence.

Now they'll try to translate that production against Red Sox pitchers, who likely won't face Rodriguez. Rodriguez has a jammed left thumb that hurts more on swings and was treated with a cortisone shot Tuesday.

"We do have some guys out, there's no doubt about that," Nick Swisher said. "Obviously when you're in a situation, you want to be the guy to try and step up. Everyone in the lineup is stepping their game up a little bit." LARRY FLEISHER

Hometown hero Ihedigbo happy to be at Foxboro

UMass-Amherst alum doing it the Patriot Way • Spent last three years with hated Jets • Chose Minutemen in honor of father • Giants on deck

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Ihedigbo spent the last three seasons with the Jets.

It was announced earlier this year that Gillette Stadium would be home to UMass-Amherst starting in the 2012 season. But one Minuteman alum is beating his college team to the punch.

James Ihedigbo, born and raised in Amherst, was signed by his hometown team last Friday. Growing up roughly two hours from Foxboro, Ihedigbo can remember attending Patriots games back in the old Foxboro stadium.

His decision to choose UMass-Amherst (2002-06) was in honor of his late father, Apollos, who worked and studied there.

The decision is one he's glad he made.

"I guess just the community, the students, the environment," Ihedigbo said, in response to what he enjoyed most at UMass. "UMass, it's a big campus, there's a lot of kids on campus. And I thought one of the cool things is, you could walk to class the same way every day, and you'd meet someone new every day. It's a high-academic school but yet it was a fun school as well."

Despite a successful college career, Ihedigbo went undrafted in 2007, and ended up on the hated Jets as an undrafted free agent. In four seasons, he played mostly special teams, but was a dependable backup safety, too.

Of course, Ihedigbo was thrilled to be on an NFL roster coming out of college, but he couldn't help but find it ironic that it was for a team he considered the "enemy" growing up.

"It's different when you experience it from the other end of it," he said. "It's like crossing enemy lines. But you take it seriously because we are in the same division and we're fighting for the same things."

Now, he's back on the good side, and hopes to have an extended stay.

5.0
Sacks for Ihedigbo in three seasons with the Jets. He also tallied 49 combined tackles (36 total) with one forced fumble.

We scour the aisles of the 2011 New York International Gift Fair ◐ Trends to look out for when decorating your home

Twice a year, Javits Center in New York is packed with the latest and greatest in lamps, rugs, salad bowls and more as The New York International Gift Fair rolls into town. The show — one of the largest of its kind with 2,800 exhibitors from around the world — features the best in home decor. We take a look at the latest trends being offered up this season.

1: Letters and numbers
Letters and numbers showed up everywhere — from traditional to modern items — and were what buyers flocked to. We spotted examples on French linen pillows, tote bags and hand-blocked artwork.
Primitives by Kathy pillow, $17, and box sign, $27, www.primitivesbykathy.com

2: Hicks 1960s
Geometric patterns and herringbone, inspired by '60s design king David Hicks, seemed to be enjoying a revival. Bright colors helped update the famous prints on wallpaper, rugs, pillows and furnishings.
Jonathan Adler herringbone rug, $1,550, Bargello Waves pillow, $130, www.jonathanadler.com

3: Making big weaves
Old-time craft makes a comeback as several designers constructed items using weave techniques in materials such as wicker, knit and even rubber.

HOW A LENDER CAN BLOW UP A DEAL

By Attorney George Warshaw

If you don't think the lender you choose makes a difference, then consider the events of the last few days in an ordinary condominium sale.

After numerous extensions of mortgage contingency deadlines due to Bank of America's processing requirements, approval to close was finally issued and the purchase closing was scheduled for last Friday at 1:00 PM.

As related by the buyer's attorney, Bank of America, however, delivered its loan documents around 4:00 PM, i.e. 3 hours after the closing time. The closing had to be delayed.

On the following Monday, Bank of America put the closing on hold so that it could make a Hurricane Irene inspection – not an unreasonable request, but still 3 days past closing.

Not every mortgage lender can deliver the loan documents or its mortgage money on time. In a purchase, the delivery capability of a mortgage lender is as important as the interest rate.

A buyer has no legal excuse to avoid being placed in default if the lender fails to deliver– or required by the seller that it cover the seller's extra costs as a condition of an extension.

Some sellers would have put the buyer in default and kept the deposit, as is their right. What would you have done?
